NEWS FROM ALL SECTIONS OF THE SUMMER COLONY OF GREATER CAPE ANN

POINTS OF INTEREST

Gloucester, Cape Ann — First white man to visit its shores was Thorwald in 1004. Harbor called by Norsemen "Krossanes." Gosnold landed here in 1602 and found the place had been used as a base by Portuguese fishermen. In 1605 Champlain sailed by the Cape but did not land. The next year, September 1606, he entered the harbor which he named Le Beauport and made a map of it. Attacked by 200 Indians and sailed away the next day. In 1614 Capt. John Smith named it Cape Ann after Anne of Denmark, mother of King Charles I. First permanent settlement of the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1623.

Stage Fort Park at westerly entrance of city. Site of settlement of Massachusetts Bay Colony, 1623-24. Tablet in commemoration of that fact placed on face of large boulder. Conant, Half Moon and Stone beaches.

Rafe's Chasm and Norman's Woe. Scene of "Wreck of the Hesperus." At Magnolia, Hesperus avenue. Fissure in solid rock cliff is 60 feet deep and 12 feet wide.

Mother Ann profile in Stone discovered in 1892 by Capt. William Thompson of Salem at tip end of Eastern Point. Dog Bar breakwater extends from a half mile long, completed in 1904 and extends from this point. On Eastern Point are many of the show residences of the North Shore. "The Ramparts" occupies site of Fort Independence.

Ten Pound Island in outer harbor; government fish hatchery thereon. Used as sheep pasture in early days. Five Pound Island in inner harbor; both so named for amounts in colonial money originally sold for.

Thompson's mountain, or Mt. Anne, West Gloucester, highest elevation on the Cape, 255 feet above sea level. Fine view ranging from Mt. Agamenticus on Maine coast to Wachusett Mountain, Bunker Hill Monument to Boston Bay. Tract given over as reservation in memory of Lawrence Minot; thickly wooded, favorite picnic resort; reached from New Way Lane. Nearby is Haskell's pond, from which city's water is secured.

Ravenswood Park, natural forest area extending from Fresh Water Cove to West Gloucester. Reached from Fresh Water Cove or the so-called Old Salem road, Western avenue. Mason Walton's cabin, "Hermit of Bond's Hill," on this road. Well worth frequenting.

Beacon or Governor's Hill, near center of city, from Washington street. Small reservation at top from which a fine view may be obtained.

Dogtown Commons, site of deserted Revolutionary settlement. Reached from Gee avenue, Riverdale. Fine example of boulder deposits of glacial period. "Whale's Jaw," best known of these boulders, at edge of common. Rocking stone, etc., now taken over by the city as a water shed.

Wharves skirting the water front, interesting as affording "close-up" of fish curing, etc.

Babson House, opposite Ellery House, erected by Col. John Low about 1745. Old slave pens in attic.

Main street, first known as Fore, afterwards as Front street. Principal business avenue. Laid out 1642. Middle street, paralleling Main, contains many old colonial houses and the Judith Sargent house, the grounds of which, originally extending to Main street have been restored.

On Middle street are the First Parish (Unitarian) Church, oldest in Gloucester; Independent Christian (Universalist) first Universalist society in America, church edifice erected 1805; St. John's Episcopal Church, Trinity Congregational Church and the First Baptist Church.

Sawyer Free Library and Reading Room, Middle street, adjoining Unitarian church. Interior fine specimen of colonial woodwork. Originally home of Thomas Sanders, merchant.

Old Town Hall Square, at junction of Middle and Washington streets. Beautiful American Legion Memorial building and monument on which was placed statue of Joan of Arc by Anna Vaughn Hyatt.

Fort Point, at western side of inner harbor, down Commercial street from Main, fortified in 1743. Now Italian quarter and rendezvous of fishermen of that nationality.

Drives around the Cape: Up Washington street, through Riverdale, past Annisquam, Bay View, Lanesville into Pigeon Cove, Rockport and completing the circuit to Gloucester. Almost a continuous ocean view, which was completed when the Bass Rocks-Land's End stretch was completed.

Beaches: Little Good Harbor and Long Beaches, between Bass Rocks and Land's End, Rockport. Wingaersheek Beach, West Gloucester, largest on Cape, two miles long, 600 feet deep at low tide; reached from Essex avenue, West Gloucester, down Concord street.

Quarries at Bay View and Pigeon Cove, among largest in country, near main highway.

Blynman canal, first cut in 1642 by Rev. Richard Blynman, at Western entrance of city.

Drives: "Little Heater," "Dark Hole" at West Gloucester.

Old Salem road, first highway from the town, blazed out in 1626, when part of the settlers went to Salem. Down Hesperus avenue (discontinued in 1892) to Salem. Name erroneously applied to Old Pest House road, leading through Ravenswood park from Western ave.

"WHO DRIVES HIS CHARIOT IN THE SUN SHALL LORD IT FOR A DAY"

FROM THE CROSSTREES

IT IS WITHIN BOUNDS to say that the interval between the last issue of the Shore and the present time has been marked by epochal events in the history of America and the World which have not been exceeded in their influence on the destinies of mankind, as far as the western hemisphere is concerned, since history has been recorded with the exception of the winning of Independence, the Civil war resulting in the freeing of the blacks by America, the Great War which, despite all that is held to the contrary, really has saved the Nordic world — save Germany — for democracy.

And if we add the sensational abdication and get out of Edward VIII — the first under similar circumstances in the long line of British kings, the synthetic recrudescence of Mussolini and his temporary engulfing of Ethiopia and its king "Lion of the Tribe of Judah," Hitler still strongly entrenched bidding defiance to the hierarchy of Christianity and last and not least the more or less peaceful revolution in this country by which labor in its age-long struggle with Capital has emerged dominant — all these have made for a world strangely changed — perhaps for the better — which is to be demonstrated.

The first of these manifestations and the primal cause and springboard by which Labor catapulted into the seats of the mightiest government of the world — shall we except the British empire — was the presidential election which some fear may mark the passing of that Democracy under which America has become the Promised Land of the oppressed of the Earth.

True it is the emotional electorate has in recent years voted pell mell almost unanimously for one candidate but not under such adverse circumstances. With practically the entire press of the country, the big city dailies, the small country weeklies, many in a chain system, with the powerful banking and business interest solidly and aggressively arrayed against him, the present incumbent was returned with but two of the New England states missing from his column. Well might he claim — as he did later — that the people had given him a mandate to virtually act as dictator — Congress already having vested in him almost autocratic powers.

"The Power of the Press" of which so much prate in the past, made a sorry showing. The voice of Greeley, Bennett, Whitelaw Reid, Dana, Bowles, Henry Watterson and other giants of the past generation once powerful in editorial sanctums now occupied by the figureheads of the internationalists — a fact well known to the public who count their writings and philippics as nothing.

Roosevelt 27,000,000; Landon, 17,000,000, a ten million majority. Ten million or thereabouts on the dole or WPA — the same thing — let us say half that number — each breadwinner having at least two votes depending on him. For whom was he going to vote, the man who had demonstrated that he would and had come across with solid substantial assistance or the Kansan — who failed to carry his own bailiwick — or the man who had made good according to their standards.

For whom would you, reader, have voted had you been in their circumstances, remembering that self-preservation is the first law of nature. And no question but this ten million factor gives the answer. The Kansan very unwisely broadcasted that he was "going to balance the budget." "How?" reasoned the relief recipients. The logical and only answer — by trimming the relief appropriations. And the revolt spread the last week of the contest through the land like a prairie fire. And they plumped solidly for the Great Almoner.

After the first term of the Roosevelt administration it is well to take account of stock. Much has been done which has evoked vigorous opposition, a hectic muddling in order to relieve an unemployment problem altogether too much over-estimated. Indications are that this fact is beginning to be appreciated and the crisis, or what was considered a crisis from this cause, has been materially relieved and that many recipients are to be asked to use their own efforts to become self-sustaining. Surely the administration has gone the limit in their behalf. But "the God's save those who help themselves."

However these necessarily hit or miss mistakes of commission and omission are fait accompli — accomplished facts — water run under the bridge that cannot be recalled. The oncoming flood may be controlled.

The important thing is to single out the useful matters the administration has done and to go along constructively with the powers that be. Nothing is to be gained by the dog in the manger policy. However one need not necessarily agree with everything.

Outstanding among these is the Security bill by which at 65 a person engaged in productive work is assured a certain amount as a pension. This policy has been denounced by many and has been fought up to the Supreme court but has been held constitutional. It marks a great step forward. Nothing is farther from the fact that it is a bantling of the Roosevelt braintrust. On the contrary it is a proved and workable project evolved and in operation in Europe and copied from that source.

In brief it's a compulsory insurance plan, somewhat upon the lines of that of the Metropolitan company, in which, however, employer and employee cooperate in contributing to a fund deducted by the employer from his wages so that there can be no renegeing — as is self-evident that the cost of collection at the source will be almost negligible. The employer also contributing.

The earnings of the employee, his periods of idleness, are carefully checked and he is paid at the expiration of his term at 65 pro rata in accordance to what he has contributed. He will not be rolling in wealth when that day comes, for calculation shows that a young man at 21 continuously employed will pull down about $60 per month. It is figured that the average payment per month will be about $40. Not much but if the employee is thrifty and saving at the wages of a fairly skilled mechanic he ought to be able in that time to have come into possession through the co-operative bank scheme of rent paying and also nest-egging a sufficient sum to pull him to the journey's end in a manner enabling him to enjoy him-

GLOUCESTER MOORS

By William Vaughn Moody

A mile behind is Gloucester town,
Where the fishing fleets put in.
A mile ahead the land dips down
And the woods and farms begin.
Here, where the moors stretch free
In the high blue afternoon,
Are the marching sun and talking sea,
And the racing winds that wheel
and flee
On the flying heels of June.

Jill-o'-er-the-ground is the purple blue
Blue is the Quaker maid.
The wild geranium holds its dew
Long in the bowlder's shade.
Wax-red hangs the cup
From the huckleberry boughs
In barberry bells the gray moths
sup,
Or where the choke-berry lifts
high up
Sweet bowls for their carouse.

Over the shelf of the sandy cove
Beach-peas blossom late,
By copse and cliff the swallows
rove,
Each calling to his mate.
Seaward the sea-gulls go,
And the land-birds all are here;
That green-gold flash was a vireo,
And yonder flame where the marsh-
flags grow
Was a scarlet nanter.
This earth is not the steadfast place
We landsmen build upon;
From deep to deep she varies pace
And while she comes is gone.
Beneath my feet I feel

Her smooth bulk heave and dip;
With velvet plunge and soft up-reel
She swings and steadies to her keel
Like a gallant ship.

These Summer clouds she sets for sail,
The sun is her masthead light,
She tows the moon like a pinnacle frail
Where her phosphor wake churns bright.
Now hid, now looming clear,
On the fact of the dangerous blue,
The star fleets tack and wheel and veer,
But on, but on does the old earth
steer,
As if her port she knew.

God! dear God! does she know her port,
Though she goes so far about?
Or blind astray, does she make her sport
To brazen and chance it out?
I watched where her captains
passed:
She were better captainless.
Men in the cabin, before the mast,
But some were reckless, and some aghast,
And some sat gorged at mess.

By her battered hatch I leaned and caught
Sounds from the noisome hold,
Cursing and sighing of souls
distraught
And criers too sad to be told.
Then I strove to go down and see;

But they said, "Thou are not of us";
I turned to those on deck with me
And cried, "Give help!" But they said, "Let be;
Our ship sails faster thus."
Jill-o'-er-the-ground is purple blue.
Blue is the Quaker maid.
The alder clump where the brook comes through
Breeds cresses in its shade.
To be out of the molling street
With its swelter and its sin!
Who has given to me this sweet
And given my brother dust to eat?

Scattering wide or blown in ranke,
Yellow and white and brown,
Boats and boats from the fishing
banks
Come home to Gloucester town.
There is cash to purse and spend
There are wives to be embraced,
Hearts to borrow and hearts to lend,
And hearts to take and keep to the end.
O, little sails, make haste.

But thou, vast outboard ship of souls,
What harbor town for thee?
What shades, when thy arriving tolls
Shall crowd the banks to see?
Shall all the happy shipmates then
Stand singing brotherly?
Or shall a haggard ruthless few Warp her over and bring her to While the many broken souls of men
Fester down in the slaver's pen.
And nothing to say or do.

Art and Dramatic

AT THE STRAND

Patrons of the Strand among the summer colony will find an entirely renovated theatre this season extending from the lobby to all parts of the house with many added improvements which will meet the approval of its clientele.

The manager-director, Mr. Stephen Perutz, is a theatrical man of sound dramatic education, alive to the preferences of his public and has selected a wide and discriminating program of presentations for the midsummer term.

"The Man In Blue," the Universal picture which opened at the theatre on Friday, is the dramatic story of a policeman who adopts the son of a burglar whom he kills in self defense during a gun battle. It is a powerful, inspiring story of hate and love; of distrust and suspicion; of faith and redemption. Through it is woven a beautiful romance that makes a man's life whole again.

The cop is portrayed by that fine character actor, Edward Ellis. The boy is played by Billy Burrud in the early sequences and by Robert Wilcox in the main situations of the play, while the girl in the story is Nan Grey, one of the "Three Smart Girls."

The youth grows into a splendid young man, with a wonderful bond of affection between him and his foster father. Then the officer, under circumstances which cause him to suspect his adopted son, wipes out all his good work with a moment of distrust.

The son is embittered and disillusioned. Subjected to the evil influence of a scamp uncle, played by Richard Carle, he turns criminal, is caught and sent to prison. In an inspiring climax, his regeneration is brought about by a restoration of faith and the assurance of his sweetheart's love.

A Mickey Mouse Cartoon and "Modern Inventions," featuring Donald Duck, accompanies the feature. From Tuesday to Thursday, July 13 to 15, Miriam Hopkins and Gertrude Lawrence in "Men Are Not Gods" co-featured with "The Bold Caballero" in natural colors, with Heather Angel in the stellar role. She was born and partially reared on the campus of Oxford, her father being for years a professor of chemistry in one of the colleges. She is opposite Robert Livingstone.

THE Gloucester Society of Artists housed most eligibly in its gallery near the Hawthorne Inn opened its season July 4 auspiciously by an exhibition—the 39th—of the work of its associated artists, pronounced one of the finest shown in years. It will close Tuesday, Aug. 3, the second showing being opened to the public Aug. 7 closing Sept. 13. Each exhibition will comprise paintings and sculpture in the large gallery, little pictures in the Little Picture gallery and prints and drawings in the Print room. The exhibition committee for 1937 includes B. Manfred Thornberg, chairman; Oscar Anderson, Richard Andrew, John J. Barry and Raymond Carter. The society includes many of the more prominent artists of the North Shore and is looking forward to a most successful year.

The North Shore Arts opened its gallery for a showing Sunday. Aldro T. Hibbard is chairman of the picture jury and Richard H. Recchia, chairman of the sculpture group with Mrs. Louise Allen Atkins and Katherine Lane as associates.

CHANGING MAIN STREET ... FORMERLY FRONT OR FORE STREET

ANNISQUAM LIGHTHOUSE by OSCAR ANDERSON

FRONT NOW MAIN STREET

If that certain pessimistic portion of the community which always views the municipal prospect through macabre lenses, is inclined to envision the prospect darkly, evidently that conviction is not concurred in by those hard-headed individuals, who guide the destinies of the Five and Ten up to a dollar emporiums and are always scanning the landscape of the country to spy an opportune spot to bog down and acquire. These people have a scientific way of going about things — no hit or miss with them. They have studied the ground and the people and its financial possibilities over a long period of years before arriving at a decision to locate.

That so many have done so within the past six months speaks eloquently of their faith in the future of this good old fishing burg. Their trial balloons — their former establishments — for ten years have convinced them that no place of similar population offers better trade prospects. To this end they have gobbled up the very choicest locations in the city on the main stem and have built edifices intended for a long time stay.

Up to within two years ago, let us, say a boy who left town after the Civil war — in the early seventies — returning to his native place and sauntering up Front, now Main st., from the Old Mason house, in later days Community house, would have found but little change in the old winding thoroughfare which was the first road to be laid out (1642) in the town and followed the convolutions of the harbor front.

The same old buildings would have met the eye with, perhaps, an improvement here and there, but the general outlook would have been substantially the same. This is true today as far as the street architecture is concerned west of the Strand theater to the Five points at the junction of Washington street.

Just after the Great war the bank directors began to spruce up their edifices both in the facade—front—and exterior with the exception of the Cape Ann National which devoted its extensions to the rearward and interior.

But it is within the last year that progress has completely changed the face of the street from Center to and down to Elm st. — in fact the most of this change has taken place since last October. The returning summer habitue will hardly fail to notice the great modernizing process — architecturally considered — that the thoroughfare has undergone in that short span.

The first great change the homecoming, long-absent son would notice was that hub and central pivot of social and commercial life the old brick Custom house and Post office had disappeared. This was purchased during the winter by the Woolworth interest for $46,000, the building demolished and the fine new modern edifice erected and now occupied, the whole at a cost which spoiled practically $100,000. Quite a sum for a retail trade stand. While many, particularly of the older grouping, whose roots run deeper into the soil than the more recent come-latelies who have no sentimental attachment to the place, resent this, it cannot be denied that the Woolworth's have put up in its place an edifice of which the citizens may well be proud.

Then down the line to what was known in recent years as Barker's drug store — an apothecary shop before the Civil war founded by Dexter Geyer and for years afterward conducted by Deacon A. E. Price — has been absorbed in the larger part of the block already held by the Kresge's which has been completely reconstructed in the interior with a street floor space as large as Woolworth's.

Now comes the confirmed news that the Wetherell block — considered the most valuable building site in the city has been taken over on a long term lease by a corporation, remodeled by a chain drug and notion interest. Then just down the street the Thompson Jewelry store building one of the most ornate in the county with solid mahogany finishings and equipment, was acquired over this Spring by the Liggett's and refinished to suit their ideas and equipment. The Barker store has been absorbed by Frank Sullivan he being almost the only local man who retains his business. Below Woolworth's, The National House Furnishing Company has exterior and interior transformed its establishment into something to be noticed by the casual pedestrian.

Beside this a number of smaller but none the less important businesses have come in, acquired good pitches along the way fitted them up in the ultra-modern manner and all seem to be enjoying a good meed of patronage.

Outstanding in most of these establishments is the ornate lunch counter in which lunches are served up in inviting fashion. The piece de resistance in all these establishments is a "turkey dinner" for 25 cents—a trade getter. Before their coming Kresge put up a fine crabmeat sandwich for a nickel but since the dolling up, the price has "riz" to ten. What the populace needs in this respect is a five cent sandwich to keep company with that five cent cigar which Joe Cannon once declared was the crying need of the nation — and which has since come to pass. It synchronizes with Mike McVan's $3 shoe which made a millionaire for its proprietor.

In fact all this upbuilding comes back to the power and day of small things — all are cut rate from a nickel up. Despite not the day of small things — marketed in a big way. Their projectors shall sail in ocean palaces and their daughters marry counts and kowtow to the potentates of the earth.

MAGNOLIA — KETTLE COVE

THE TAX CONTROVERSY against the owners of the Oceanside property and the city has been settled. According to statements made at a public hearing the unpaid taxes dating back to 1931 aggregated $38,000. The city strung along for several years, at last demanded a showdown. The proprietor made an offer of $18,000 stating that the outlook was improving and that last year his earnings netted up to $800 of breaking even and this year promised better. The settlement comprehends a cash payment of $20,000, the title to the abortive golf links property and the Underwood cottage, near the hotel, assessed at $9,600. Altogether those conversant with values say this approximates a present cash valuation settlement of practically $27,000. So this property now starts off at par.

The general impression is that the day of the big hotel, especially on the North Shore, is over. But listen! A newspaper item in the Boston press recently stated that the proprietor of the New Ocean House at Swampscott paid in advance his taxes on the property amounting to $12,500 and this has been his annual custom for some years. Evidently this hotel proposition is making money. Some years ago the leading summer hostelrys of the country were the Oceanside at Magnolia under George Upton and Albert Edes, the Smiley resort at Lake Mohonk and the Mt. Washington and Mt. Pleasant in the White Mountains, the Gen. John Anderson properties.

The Swampscott hostelry coming along a little later never ranked with the Oceanside in exclusiveness and popularity in its heyday. Evidently in recent years the Swampscott house has enjoyed managership of the highest quality — especially in the depression years — to make such an enviable record.

The business and commercial interests are again warring or, at least begun to war, at Magnolia. A movement to amend the rezoning laws making Lexington avenue southerly to the sea a business district has resulted in a hearing before the Municipal Council and a spirited opposition from those summer residents who have spent hundreds of thousands in improving their estates. Question? Has this commercialization of the place gone far enough? Is Magnolia being over-shopped? What is the better business proposition for the city — to encourage and protect the summer residents who have developed Magnolia to what it is — or was — or let all and sundry come in and open up shop anywhere and depreciate values? When one or two of the key men in the commercial upbuild of the avenue drop out will it be as desirable as a high-grade shopping district?

A. Raymond Brown, of the Grande Maison de Blanc, got a thrill and a shakeup while en route north from Florida this Spring. Coming through a stretch in North Carolina a tire blew, the machine overturned and rolled over down an embankment several times. Mr. Brown crawled out from under the embranchment and took stock of himself, his customary immaculate attire being scarcely ruffled and his person without a scratch. Coming to Magnolia for a lookaround he subsequently departed for Paris on the Queen Mary on a business trip, stopping over for the Coronation. Thence to Magnolia for the summer.

Important to the summer residents of Magnolia especially are two decisions just rendered by the local Planning self in his elder days when his children have come to maturity. In any event the least competent will receive a sufficient amount to keep him off the Relief and Welfare roll.

Then comes the highly important matter of insurance of savings bank deposits — the nest eggs of the great mass of the self-respecting mobility against their old age — up to $5000 for each deposit. That in itself is the crowning triumph of the Roosevelt regime and will do much to redeem his policies in the eyes of appraising historians. For the hollow fashion in which widows and orphans were hijacked of their life's savings by many of these institutions is too vivid in memory to necessitate repetition. Many of these men in these trust institutions of high standing, according to newspaper reports of court investigations were exceedingly fortunate in escaping long termed jail sentences. We have before us the testimony in the case of one highly-placed Boston institution although fortunately, New England in the main, was comparatively free of such mal-management. But enough for this issue.

The thing now is to play ball with what is best — and there is considerable of good — with the administration.

EASTERN POINT

GREATER CAPE ANN never looked lovelier than at the beginning of the midsummer season. The showers nearly every night and the continuous fogs have stimulated vegetation to its utmost. Capt. John Smith, when he named this section New England, certainly made no misnomer, at least as far as rain and fog is concerned in the springtime. There may be a lovelier section combining land and seascape than the Cape Ann sector but we have not seen it. Fortunately the rare combination of wood and ocean has been preserved by wise and timely action. Cape Ann was indicated in the Great Scheme of Things as a refuge and seaside Arcady in which Life might be enjoyed to the ultimate.

Returning sojourners will notice a radical change on Five Pound Island. The old and picturesque fish houses have disappeared and the island is bare of buildings. A long, finger-like pier in the making projects southwest toward the harbor mouth. It is the big Fish pier, building jointly by national and state government and the municipality, the object, cost $1,500,000, being to speed up and enlarge the scope of fish production. It is expected to be ready for occupancy as a going concern sometime next spring. As to its need and the adequacy of its site there is a strong difference of opinion. Gloucester harbor is tooth-picked with two and half miles of wharf frontage, quite a little unoccupied. Politics entered largely into its inception and promotion. The big fishing interest went on record as not being necessary to their business, but withheld active opposition on the ground that they were charged with obstructing progress. It may be a success or it may not be. One other fishing port—that is among the ports that were of fishery importance—has a fish pier designed for the same purpose for which the present pier is building—Provincetown. In the latter instance as far as stimulating the fisheries of that ancient Cape Cod port it has been a failure. A few fish houses only are occupied by the fishermen, the pier and its houses being preempted and squatted upon mainly by that Bacchanalian and changing group of national repute, the Artists' (so-called) colony. Perhaps some future generation of artists—and would-be artists—may make similar use of the Five Pound Island project. The heavens forefend.

Spending the summer months at the Smith bungalow, Eastern Point, is Mrs. Joseph Hurley of Roxbury.

EAST GLOUCESTER AND
ROCKY NECK

ALL ROADS after the commencements and boat race lead down the North Shore, the greater number of travelers continue on to windswept Cape Ann proper.

This is a yachting year and the sport is being stimulated by the International contest for the Queen's cup. The craft that brought that trophy over, the schooner America, was owned by Gen. Butler, a summer resident at Bay View, and hailed from Gloucester and she was a familiar figure for years in our harbor. Therefore our yachting heritage is well founded.

Rocky Neck is coming more and more into its own as a yachting basin. Of recent years the sea-urge has manifested itself among the younger generation and expeditions on round-the-world sea voyages fit and take departure from this port with attendant newspaper publicity of corresponding value. There is no place along the Atlantic seaboard where as ample facilities for fitting a yacht or craft of adventure exist than here with its skilled shipwrights, sea-smiths, riggers and sailmakers and other marine craftsmen. Yachting men, especially in the larger tonnage division, are becoming more and more aware of this fact. There is a big future ahead for East Gloucester in the yacht outputting line and the improvement of Smith's Cove has done much to stimulate this profitable business.

More and more the artists who are renters make Rocky Neck their summer habitat and their number grows each year. The North Shore association lost its suit for tax freedom on the ground that it was an educational institution. The tax appeals board held that by reason that the rooms of the organization were used as a salesmart for the artists' paintings and, therefore, was a commercial proposition pure and simple. These taxes had been protested since 1932. So the association had to come across and announces that it will hold its annual street fair to raise funds to pay into the municipal treasury. In these days when every source is canvassed to raise funds for increased governmental and city expenditures about every occupation and calling is doomed for its share of the national largesse and will continue to be so, perforce, until the present policy of subsidizing idlers at public expense is abandoned. Anything, person or project, that can't stand on its

THE ANNISQUAM REGION

THE SEASON HERE formally opened Independence Day with the customary racing and dinner at the clubhouse in the evening, some hundred persons being present at the latter festivities. The usual yachting schedule will be sailed during the season on Saturday and Sunday with special events in between, the social fixtures including the Saturday evening dinners and dances.

It is with regret that we learned of the death of Commodore Frank W. Hastings at his home in Cambridge this Spring. Mr. Hastings was one of the oldest residents in this locality, coming here with his parents as a boy and was widely known. To the writer, who has known him for many years, his acquaintance was of something more than the touch and go contact of the newspaper field; we esteemed him as an old friend. He was in his eightieth year and his business activities had been in the insurance and banking fields in which he was active up to the time of his passing, although for several years past he had been in poor health.

James Stearns Lee, a well known architect, a summer resident first at Magnolia and for the past 15 years at Annisquam, died in June at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, in his 67th year. He designed many of the country estates in Magnolia and vicinity. He was an officer of many fishing clubs in this country, Canada and abroad and possessed an extensive angling library, well-known among sportsmen and he was considered an authority on Egyptology.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Georgie Mc-

UPPER CAPE ANN

Manchester

FROM THE VERY first that part of the North Shore from Beverly down to Cape Ann has been exceptionally fortunate inasmuch as the first comers who spied out the land for summer homes have had the vision to foresee what might eventually happen and have taken steps in time to take measures to forestall such desecration. We mean that these truly patriotic and public spirited men of wealth have, by purchasing various tracts of woodland abutting the highways and to be preserved as such forever, left a legacy which should and does endear and preserve their names for all time as public benefactors. Witness these acquisitions from Pride's down and the deeply wooded Manchester road to Essex—the "big heater" of the grandfathers.

Gloucester proper has been particularly favored in this respect. Samuel E. Sawyer left the tract several miles square to the northwest of Freshwater Cove as a public wooded reservation and the city has acquired much of the woodland in the Upper Parish of West Gloucester, as a watershed. The Minot brothers have made a memorial of what is now known as Mt. Ann, the highest eminence on the Cape in the Upper Parish, in honor of their brother Lawrence, in addition to other similar bequests along the same area. And now comes the recent announcement that Bradley W. Palmer has bequeathed a strip, a component part of this sector, situated in Ipswich, or some 2000 acres as a public reservation. Mr. Palmer, a summer resident of Ipswich for the past thirty-five years has, during that time been buying up many abandoned farms abutting each other in that locality and having accomplished his objective has turned these holdings over to the state authorities for public use. May the tribe of these worthy citizens of their day and generation who live for the future increase and may prosperity follow their posterity.

Taking all these landed bequests which serve at once as a sanctuary for human and the wild life of this section—a New Forest, as broad a domain as that decreed by the ruthless Conqueror in the old country has come into existence, that New Forest in which the Conqueror's son was cut down by the arrow of an unknown Nemesis whose patrimony had been seized as a part of the domain. The extensive buildings of men of means in Ipswich, Hamilton, Topsfield and adjoining towns ensures the perpetuity of Essex county as a typical Old England in New England.

The Misses Caroline P. and Elizabeth P. Corder of 5 Chestnut street, Boston, are at "Kingscote" at Smith's Point.

Mrs. Chatfield Whitman of Union Park will occupy the C. E. Cotting cottage on Harbor street, West Manchester, this season.

Miss Evelyn Sturgis, back from a winter spent on the Continent, has joined her sisters, the Misses Frances and Mabel Sturgis at "Rookwood," off Summer street, for the summer.

An engagement of interest to society folk of the North Shore recently announced by Mrs. George Howard Monks of Commonwealth avenue, Boston, is that of her daughter Miss Olga Monks to Mr. Constantin Alexander Pertzoff of Cambridge, son of Mrs. Alexander Nicholas Pertzoff of Petrograd and the late Mr. Pertzoff.

Mrs. George Hawley of 35 Chestnut street, Boston, has arrived at her cottage "Uplands" for the season, on Highland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Whitehouse will be very much missed from the Shore this season as they do not plan to open their cottage at the Cove, "Crowhurst," but will spend the season in travel.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Morse have moved down from Boston to the "Moorings," Norton's neck. They will have their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roslyn Carney and family of Chestnut Hill with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stockton were at their cottage off Summer street for the early summer before going on to their estate at Westport, Lake Champlain. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams Jr. of Wellesley, will occupy the Stockton cottage during the summer.

The Walter Mitchell cottage on Magnolia avenue, "Glendyne," has been leased for the season to W. Eugene McGregor of Chestnut Hill.

Henry V. Cunningham and the Harry B. Duane of Chestnut street, Boston, are among the arrivals at their summer homes, University lane, at the Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie 2d, who have spent the winter at their home on Cumberland island off the coast of Florida, are at "Seawold" their charming estate at Manchester Cove.

The William G. Rueters are at "Little Orchard." They have been living here rather intermittently for several seasons.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pullen Dennett are at "Hemlock Hill" for the season. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Blyth, have a bungalow on the same estate.

Among those who have opened their summer homes are: Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Spencer who were at "Foregate" last season and this summer have a cottage at 32 Sea street; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Coletti; Mrs. Gardiner Martin Lane, at "The Chimneys"; Mr. and Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby at "The Apple Trees," West Manchester; Mr. and Mrs. William D. Sohier Jr. at "Rockhurst," Smith's Point; Lawrence Foster; Mrs. Walter D. Denegre at "Villa Crest," West Manchester; Mrs. John Babson Thomas; William Kennard Kenly, "Hygge Contente," Highland avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Blumer, Blossom Lane; Mrs. Philip Dexter at "Boulderwood"; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Felton 3rd, Beach street; Reginald Boardman, "Boardman Hill House"; Mrs. Lester Leland at "Old Tree House"; Mrs. Gordon Abbott Sr., "Glass Head"; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott Jr., Tuck's Point road; Mrs. William S. H. Lothrop, Proctor street; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Bacon, Caner estate, Dana's beach; Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Hayward, Hemenway estate; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wheeler, "Fort House," Norton's Neck; The Misses Sturgis, "Rookwood"; Dr. and Mrs. Frank D. Ingraham, who have recently purchased the Gavitt estate, and Mrs. James H. Phelan and daughters at "Ledgewood," Smith's Point.

MILADY GOES SHOPPING

Gloucester, Mass.

Dear Emmy Lou:

We arrived in Gloucester a few weeks ago, and it certainly is a picturesque city! It just teems with beauty—beaches, parks, hotels and a most complete shopping centre.

As we were riding along the boulevard, the entrance to Gloucester, Laura and I took special notice of the Fisherman's Memorial we have heard so much about. Do you remember we saw it photographed in the motion picture "Captains Courageous"? After seeing the reality, a reproduction could not possibly do it justice. It is a magnificent work of sculpture by Mr. Leonard Craske. But really Emmy Lou, you can't imagine the exquisite splendor of the entrance to this city as one gazes out to the horizon across the blue of the harbor.

It seems as if there will be plenty to do in Gloucester this summer. We are told that splendid roads lead to points of historic and scenic interest, including Annisquam Willows, The Paper House, The Lighthouses, Rafe's Chasm, Whales Jaw, Reef of Norman's Woe, The Old Riggs House, Art Galleries, Joan d' Arc statue, Ravenswood Park—a beautiful stretch of wild land finely developed, granite quarries, the ship yards at Essex, where the famous Gloucester fishing schooners are built. I guess you can do something or see something here almost any time you wish.

For our habitat, we have hired a very small, but cozy camp down near a beach. Furnishing our new home will occupy all spare moments. It will be a simple matter, however, due to the convenience of the Gloucester stores.

Laura and I have been very fortunate in securing work for the summer. I, dear Emmy Lou, am a full-fledged guide in the Gorton-Pew Fisheries plant. Today this company, besides owning and operating its own huge fleet of fishing vessels, has available the catch of many other Gloucester vessels. It owns and operates a large series of plants for curing, preparing and packing fish products.

With all its growth, the Gorton-Pew plant still maintains much of the old time picturesqueness that is a part of Gloucester. Each year it receives thousands of visitors, who always find a welcome. And they take away with them a definite impression of the aim back of the Gorton-Pew institution—the desire to helpfully serve.

As soon as we are out of our most savage disorder, I do wish you would come and be our guest and I know you will be most grateful to Gorton's—once you have tasted any one of their delicious products and inspected their kitchen.

I am afraid I can not enlighten you much about Laura's position—it is just a day old. Hornblower and Weeks, members of the New York, Boston and Chicago stock exchange is the company that employs our friend. Next week I hope to be well informed about her duties and expectations of this position and you will be the first one to hear about it.

We have so many things to buy to be genuinely happy in our "Estate" (that's our nickname for the camp). Time, this week, has been very limited trying to get located temporarily. We postponed our shopping until next week.

Something has to be done about an ice chest. The Cape Pond Ice Company have very kindly delivered our ice to us and the only receptacle available was an aluminum tub—so our ice has been deposited thusly. Perhaps you can understand our dire necessity for the luxuries of life. Our experience at present is somewhat like the cave man, only of course we don't have to go around killing animals for food. At least that is a consolation!

Next on our "must have" account, is electrical appliances. We need all sorts of equipment for the grandeur of our abode, so our trip to the Gloucester Gas and Electric Company will be a treat. We have seen their ad of an Everhot Roaster in one of the summer papers and if we can manage it, this will certainly be included in our purchases next week.

It is designed for easy cooking at a saving. In one operation, you can cook a complete meal, or any of your favorite dishes—meats, vegetables, biscuits, cakes, pies, pancakes, fried chicken, French toast—with complete assurance of satisfactory results.

Just place the food in the roaster, and you need pay no more attention to it. Thermostatic control automatically regulates temperature; less watching is necessary. Meats baste themselves in their own juices. Full flavors and health-building minerals and juices are retained. As you well know, Emmy Lou, this would be an unusually safe investment for Laura and I, and for two working girls it is really a necessity.

To complete our shopping tour next week we shall buy a great supply of prepared paint and just loads of kitchen furnishings at L. E. Andrews and Company, make deposits at the Cape Ann National Bank—for me, and the Gloucester National Bank—for Laura. I also heard Laura mention she had to attend to some business at the Gloucester Co-operative Bank.

All for now, Emmy Lou—you probably have gathered how busy we are and shall be for a few weeks, so until my next letter,

So long,

C. ANNE SHORE.

BASS ROCKS GOLF CLUB

The Bass Rocks Golf Club announced its opening June 27, featuring a cocktail party from five-thirty to seven o'clock. With an air of abandon and gaiety about the Club house, the Fourth was ushered in with a buffet supper and fireworks. Mrs. Sterne was hostess to 154 members and guests.

Preceding the affair at the Club house, was a cocktail party at the home of Mrs. John Nash and a party at Mrs. Belding's home. Following the Fourth party at the Club house was a bridge party at the home of Mrs. Sterne.

On June 19, a luncheon was served by Mrs. John Nash in honor of Mrs. Dyer.

Miss Duprey was guest of honor at a luncheon on June 25, the day before her marriage. The luncheon was tendered by Mrs. A. A. Hoehling.

At a bridge luncheon on June 29, Mrs. Edward Wilson was hostess.

The committee at the Club house this year are very enthusiastic and competent and many good times in the future are assured.

The committee consists of its usual large number of members headed by Mrs. John Barr, chairman; Mrs. John Nash, treasurer; Miss Alice Scott, secretary; Mrs. Sterne, charge of lunches and Miss Jarvie, charge of flowers.

The Dean Cornwells of New York City have taken the "Brothers" cottage on the Ames estate, Bay View, for another season.

Arthur J. White and family of Red Bank, N. J., have the Quarry Cottage on the Ames estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Momand of New York have "The Ledges," Rowley Shore, Lanesville.

HOTEL EDWARD was filled to capacity over the holiday. Under new management, the Edward is becoming ultra-modern with its tennis court, open to the public; a most unique grill room, where one can lunch in completely informal attire and a perfectly grand sun deck, atop the third floor. A most enjoyable time will be had by the young folks at the hotel this season—good luck to the manager.

THE CAPE ANN BREEZE

YACHTING

International yachting year usually peps up enthusiasm anent this king of aquatic sports and the present seems no exception to the rule. The season on Cape Ann promises to be fully as well as any of its predecessors. Annisquam, Eastern Point, Sandy Bay and Conomo will as usual be the quartette which will keep the sport alive at all cardinal points of the compass on the Cape.

The Point and Sandy Bay were the first to take water, June 26, but weather conditions were adverse and both fizzled. Conomo got away next day. Annisquam always breaks the ice Independence Day. Eastern Point lists 39 races tri-weekly, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday.

A new event this year is for the Mehlman Memorial Cup donated to the Triangle class by Commodore Harry H. Walker. It is to be presented each year to the winner of a race from the harbor starting line to the Whistling Buoy off Thacher's Island and return. The boat winning the trophy twice obtains permanent possession. This year's race will be on July 15 at 10:30 a.m.

The Eastern Point club sponsors four classes as usual. Class R, Triangles, International star class and Cape Cod knockabouts.

MAIDEE II WINNER

ROCKPORT, June 27—In a breeze varying from east to northeast about 7 knots, three classes raced at Sandy Bay this afternoon.

The course was a beat to Andrews Point, a run to Straitsmouth and a reach home repeated.

In the Star Class, Maidee II had the best of the start and led throughout, although close-pressed by San Souci, which broke into second place on the first windward round. The summary:

INJUN LEADS TRIANGLES IN EASTERN POINT RACE

GLOUCESTER, June 27—Two classes got off in a 7-knot northeasterly wind this afternoon in the Eastern Point race over a new course. No. 1 mark, formerly at the Whistler, was shifted two miles southeast of that point.

In the Triangles the Injun, by smart work setting the spinnaker, forged to the front establishing a lead that was held to the finish. Carecilla overhauling Cursor at the weather mark came home second.

Midge charted the course all the way in the Star Class. The summary:

IN EASTERN POINT RACE

GLOUCESTER, July 4—The racing at Eastern Point this afternoon was started and ended in a thick fog accompanied by a light and fluky southeast wind and only one class, the R's, succeeded in negotiating the course. Mojala reeled off a good lead all the way, but lost it by mistaking the turning point at the conclusion of the first round. Popinjay profited by this error and went on to win.

The two other classes, Triangles and Stars, ran into calm weather and were beaten by the time limit, Injun and Ibex being the leaders. The summary:

SANS SOUCI EASILY WINS

SANDY BAY STAR CLASS

ROCKPORT, July 3—A five-knot breeze from the southwest, backing gradually to south, and a smooth sea made the going pleasant at Sandy Bay this afternoon.

Sans Souci won easily in the International Star Class, with Maidie and Ara battling for second.

In the 18-footers the Lee overtook Onward on the first leg and maintained the lead throughout. Myrtice A again chalked up a lead in the Sandy Bay Division. The summary:

Board and ratified by the Municipal Council. The owner of a house in Upper Freshwater Cove petitioned that the zoning law be changed in that locality from purely residential to business. At the hearing it was brought out that a sale of the property in question was contingent on securing such change. A recent purchaser of a house with an extensive tract of woodland objected on the ground that it was taken for granted that the present restrictive zoning would continue, that she had bought the property on the understanding that the present zoning laws were permanent. Furthermore she stated that it would be a calamity if this woodland entrance to the city were cluttered up by hot dog stands and filling stations and that she knew of no more beautiful entrance into any city in the country, which it would be a crime to desecrate, than that into Gloucester. The latter argument prevailed.

BEACH CLUB

Activities at the Magnolia Beach Club this season have been unusually gay. The holiday celebration was "tops" in entertainment and fun. After a most appetizing buffet supper, fireworks were displayed and for the remainder of the evening, dancing was in order — making the Club's first affair a grand success.

Miss Joan Griess was tendered a party by her mother, Mrs. Justin Griess of Manchester, the occasion being Miss Joan's fifteenth birthday. The young folks attending the happy affair participated in a scavenger hunt, dinner and dancing held at the Club house.

Beach sports are in progress already at the pool and beach — this week marking the beginning of the races.

rious heads of departments and city attaches.

It is with great regret that we announce the death of Mrs. Alida Anderson, wife of Mr. Oscar Anderson the well known marine painter. She passed away June 30 at the Addison Gilbert hospital. A woman of sunny disposition, fine character, well known in the artist colony, she will be missed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

John Hawkins, 69, an artist who achieved recognition as a painter of the sea despite a partial paralysis which confined him to a wheel chair early in his career, died May 30 at his studio, at 40 Rocky Neck avenue, East Gloucester.

Mr. Hawkins, a native of Annapolis, studied at Harvard under Prof. Charles Moore and at the old Museum of Fine Arts. He had just begun his Art Museum study when his paralysis developed.

Despite the handicap, he pursued his art, and from his wheel chair in his studios here and at Ogunquit, he looked at the sea and gained inspiration to paint more than 200 pictures of the ocean. He also produced many fine etchings.

Mrs. Hawkins has returned to her studio at Ogunquit.

Ralph Pearson and family of New York have arrived for the season. Mr. Pearson conducts a school of design each summer on the sch. Herbert at the Rocky Neck railways.

Frederick Rigley of Michigan who recently returned from a painting tour in Florida, is a student of Emile Gruppe, the artist of Rocky Neck avenue. Mr. Rigley travels in a trailer.

Alexander Garfield Tupper of New York has arrived for the season and is stopping in the studio cottage on Rocky Neck avenue, formerly occupied by Mrs. Antoinette Inglis, the portrait painter.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Corcoran of New York will occupy one of the Charles G. Kelley studios on East Main street the coming season.

Mr. and Mrs. William Meyero-witz (Theresa Bernstein), artists, of New York, have arrived at their summer home, 44 Mt. Pleasant ave.

Hugh Breckenridge, Philadelphia artist and instructor, and Mrs. Breckenridge arrived yesterday for the season. Mr. Breckenridge will conduct the Breckenridge School of Art at Rocky Neck again this season.

Eleanor Parke Custis of Washington, whose summer studio is at 75 Rocky Neck avenue, Gloucester, held an exhibition of water colors during May at the Robert C. Vose Galleries, Copley square, Boston.

Emile Gruppe, the artist, has arrived at his studio for the season.

Lester A. Gillette, the artist, whose studio has been in the Parker building, on Rocky Neck avenue, for several years, is at the Reed building, East Gloucester square, this season.

One of the events scheduled for Saturday, July 10, is Miss Margaret Fitzhugh Browne's tea at her "Cove House Studio" in Annisquam, when some of her outstanding portrait successes of the year will be exhibited.

Among the portraits the most important is that of Beatrice Herford, the monologist, in addition to others.

Miss Browne is planning additional studio room at Annisquam this summer to give opportunity for an increased number of pupils who desire to paint under her guidance.

In the year nineteen hundred and thirty-two,

AN ORDINANCE

providing for certain ISOLATED "STOP" signs.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL—

SECTION 1—Every driver of a vehicle, bus or other conveyance, approaching an intersecting way at which there exists facing him, an official sign, authorized by this Municipal Council, said sign having apart from this regulation, the written approval of the Department of Public Works of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and bearing the word "STOP" shall before entering and proceeding through the intersection, bring such vehicle, bus or other conveyance to a complete STOP at such line as may be clearly marked, or, if there is no line so marked, at a place between the said sign and the line of the street intersection.

In the case of a line of two or more vehicles approaching such "STOP" sign, the drivers of the second and third vehicles in any group shall not be required to stop more than once at said designated line or place or in the immediate vicinity.

This ordinance shall not apply when the traffic is otherwise di-

One of the steps in the preparation of codfish for the market. Drying and curing whole codfish at the Gorton-Pew Fisheries.

You Are Cordially Invited—

OUR door is always open. And we are always glad to show visitors the fascinating processes employed in our plant. See how we take fish fresh from the ocean and prepare them for the tables of America's discriminating housewives. There is no more interesting sight in all of quaint old Gloucester.

If it were only possible to transport some of the charm of Gloucester back home—its romantic harbor, its curious old streets and homes, its atmosphere of the sea. Although this is impossible you may have a reminder of pleasant Gloucester days in sending to your home some of our delicious fish products. For this purpose
